The Mission of the Agency is to preserve and promote Connecticut’s cultural and tourism assets in order to enhance the quality of life and economic vitality of the State.
ABOUT THE COMMISSION ON CULTURE & TOURISM

The Connecticut Commission on Culture & Tourism (CCT) was created in 2003 to take advantage of the opportunities for collaboration, coordination and growth in the arts, historic preservation, tourism and film. CCT operates in three distinct ways: as a grant making agency, the entity charged with promoting Connecticut to travelers, and the State Historic Preservation Office (SHPO). CCT devotes its resources to serving Connecticut’s assets and individuals through funding, technical assistance, promotion, and economic assistance.

The Arts Division develops and strengthens the arts in Connecticut and makes artistic experiences widely available to residents and visitors. Through its grant programs, the division invests in Connecticut artists and arts organizations and encourages the public’s participation as creators, learners, supporters and audience members. Through its programs and services, the division connects people to the arts and helps to build vital communities across the state.

The Historic Preservation and Museum Division functions under state and federal law as Connecticut’s State Historic Preservation Office (SHPO). The division administers a range of federal and state programs that identify, register and protect the buildings, sites, structures, districts and objects that comprise Connecticut’s cultural heritage. The division administers the federal and state tax credit programs for historic rehabilitation in addition to seven grant programs. The SHPO makes grants for restoration and historic preservation planning. The division operates six historic properties: Old New-Gate Prison and Copper Mine, Viets Tavern, Henry Whitfield State Museum, Sloane-Stanley Museum, and Prudence Crandall Museum.

The Tourism Division works to make tourism a leading economic contributor and a source of pride for Connecticut. The division partners with the Connecticut business community and five regional tourism districts to position the state, encourage strategic investment and ensure that Connecticut is a prime destination for leisure and business travelers. The division offers a broad range of services, including marketing, research, hospitality services, direct sales and business marketing assistance. The division operates Connecticut’s six Welcome Centers.

ECONOMIC IMPACT

The economic impact of culture and tourism in Connecticut is profound and far-reaching. The arts, film, historic preservation and tourism together account for over $14 billion in economic activity and 170,000 jobs annually.

Direct, indirect and induced spending related to culture and tourism accounts for 10% of Connecticut’s labor force, 7.6% of the gross state product and 6.9% of state and local revenue. Investments in culture and tourism pay both fiscal and human dividends. Every dollar the State appropriates to the Commission on Culture & Tourism (CCT) is leveraged by: $9.30 in net state and local revenue; $507 in gross state product; and $328 in personal income. Over 22 million people per year experience Connecticut’s cultural attractions, and over 500 non-profits and municipalities benefit from CCT grants annually.

To distinguish itself as a sought-after destination, an exceptional place to do business and an enviable place to call home, Connecticut invests in our quality of life. State funding for culture and tourism is administered by the Connecticut Commission on Culture & Tourism (CCT).

Arts, historic preservation and tourism generate more than $9 billion in personal income for Connecticut citizens and over $1.7 billion in state and local revenue.
Challenge Grants are designed to assist non-profit culture and tourism entities in their efforts to promote attractions and events that are open to visitors. This grant program creates a partnership between CCT and its constituents, supports product development and extends CCT’s strategic marketing efforts. This program requires matching funds and is available to arts, history, film and tourism entities. The minimum grant funds that may be requested are $7,500 and the maximum is $30,000.

Contact: Rena Calcaterra, 860-256-2744, rena.calcaterra@ct.gov

Cooperative (Co-Op) Grants are intended to provide valuable strategic marketing partnerships to all CCT constituents and leverage the collaboration of CCT’s statewide marketing and regional tourism district funds allocated by the State of Connecticut. Four subsidized pre-selected marketing partnerships are offered. This program requires matching funds and is available to arts, history, film and tourism entities. The maximum grant funds varies dependent upon the project.

Culture & Tourism Partnership Grants encourage innovative partnerships between cultural and tourism entities. Partnership Grants support projects that engage partners outside of the applicant’s discipline or traditional program area. Successful projects combine history, arts, heritage, humanities, film or tourism activities. The program can encourage new partnerships, expand the scope of current programming, jump-start creative programs, or attract new audiences/participants/visitors. The maximum grant award is $3,000.

NOTE: The Partnership Grant program has been suspended due to budget constraints.

The Peer Advisor Network (PAN) is a flexible, short-term consulting service available to non-profit cultural organizations working directly in support of arts, heritage, humanities and film. The program is also available to corresponding community cultural groups without a formal 501-C-3 designation. PAN is supported by a network of specially trained advisors who are matched with specific client needs. Consulting contracts are available for up to a two-day consultancy to help address numerous health and wellness issues and/or to help advance an existing or establish a new expertise. Clients directly contract with an assigned Advisor. PAN Advisor fees are fixed at $300 per day: CCT awards two thirds of the Advisor fee ($200) and the client pays one third ($100).
The PAN program is administered by five PAN Field Offices. Interested organizations or groups should contact the appropriate PAN Field Office for assistance and to submit an application and complete a self-assessment. Applications are reviewed year-round – there are no application deadlines. PAN Field Offices, with support from the Commission, review requests and assign a suitable Peer Advisor. Application guidelines and forms are available through any of the five PAN Field Offices or from the Commission’s website: www.cultureandtourism.org. See the program brochure to determine which PAN Field Office to contact.

The purpose of the Strategic Initiative Grant program is to support and further the mission of the Connecticut Commission on Culture & Tourism: to preserve and promote Connecticut’s cultural and tourism assets in order to enhance the quality of life and economic vitality of the state.

Strategic Initiative Grants support cross-discipline programs and activities that develop or expand the scope of current programming, generate product development, or represent fresh ideas/strategies which attract new or greater participation. Projects may be a one-time initiative with long-lasting impact or may be the germination of an innovation with potential for sequential annual growth. Cross-discipline partnerships are strongly encouraged. This grant program does not support marketing efforts.

The Commission will award grants in two categories:

Category 1 – Local Impact: The Commission will award grants up to $6,000 for projects, new or extended, that impact a local town, community, or area.

Category 2 – Statewide Impact: The Commission will award grants up to $50,000 for projects, new or extended, with state-wide impact.

This program requires matching funds.

Established by the General Assembly in 1978, the Art in Public Spaces program requires that not less than 1% of the cost of construction or renovation of publicly accessible state buildings be allocated for the commission or purchase of artwork for that building. Nearly 400 works have been commissioned since the program’s inception. The works represent a wide variety of media, including sculpture, wall relief, environmental installation, painting, and photography; and range in scale from works on paper to monumental murals.

Art in Public Spaces components include: the Visual Arts Image Bank – with over 1,000 artists represented; the Connecticut Artists Collection – works of art by distinguished Connecticut artists that tour the state; Maintenance and Conservation – annual inspection and conservation of all artworks purchased and commissioned since 1978.

The Arts in Education Department is dedicated to advancing the arts as essential elements of life-long learning. Its programs and services include:

The Higher Order Thinking (HOT) Schools Program

New! Beginning spring 2010, HOT Schools professional development opportunities will be extended to K-8 educators statewide. Individual HOT School teams will conduct sessions highlighting best practices in HOT Schools. These one-day sessions will provide educators a glimpse into various aspects of HOT Schools and an opportunity to observe, engage in, and dialogue about ways in which HOT School teachers have transformed HOT theory into practice. This is a great opportunity for schools interested in knowing more about implementing aspects of the HOT Approach that fit the needs of their school culture.

The HOT Schools Summer Institute

The HOT Schools Summer Institute is a week-long residential conference for teams of teachers, artists, administrators, parents and arts organization personnel interested in teaching and learning in, about, and through the arts. The Summer Institute features presenters and workshops leaders who are national experts in arts in education. The Summer Institute is open to participants from Connecticut and the nation.
Early Learning Arts Grants support eligible arts organization and early learning programs that offer unique arts experiences to children ages birth to five, their parents/caregivers and instructors. Early Learning grant programs utilize the arts to improve the quality and increase the accessibility of early childhood learning opportunities. These programs promote cognitive, motor, language, social and/or emotional development through the arts, preparing children to succeed in school and in life. Inclusive of a strong arts focus and significant parent/caregiver and instructor involvement, Early Learning grants support innovative creative learning programs for children. The award range is $5,000 to $25,000.

Suspended for FY2010 due to budget constraints.

Underserved Youth Arts Grants are available to eligible arts and youth development organization partnerships that offer substantive arts experiences during non-school hours for underserved middle-school youth (ages 10 to 15). In Underserved Youth grant programs, young people work directly with professional artists to develop artistic skills and knowledge while creating and performing their own works. Built around youth’s interests and needs, these programs promote arts learning, employ the principles of positive youth development, and are supported by partnerships between non-profit arts organizations and community-based youth development programs. The award range is $5,000 to $25,000.

Suspended for FY2010 due to budget constraints.

Creative Collaboration Grants
Creative Collaboration Grants encourage the integration of teaching artists from CCT’s Directory of Teaching Artists into a variety of settings for teaching and learning. These grants fund residencies and professional development between and among teaching artists, schools, non-profit arts organizations and arts programs of non-arts organizations. The maximum grant award is $2,000 for collaborations of 5+ days.*

*Creative Collaborations - American Masterpieces
Creative Collaborations offer an American Masterpieces component (funded by the NEA) to acquaint Americans with the best of their cultural and artistic legacy. The maximum award is $3,000.

Suspended for FY2010 due to budget constraints.

Poetry Out Loud
Poetry Out Loud (POL) is a national recitation contest funded by the National Endowment for the Arts and the Poetry Foundation. The program is free and open to all Connecticut high school English and language arts classes. POL encourages the nation’s youth to learn about great poetry through memorization and performance, which help students master public speaking skills, build self-confidence, and learn about our literary heritage. CCT is delighted to partner with Saint Joseph College, Carol Autorino Center for the Arts in conducting Poetry Out Loud this year.

Arts Presentation grants provide funding to nonprofit organizations, units of state or local government and educational institutions that present events featuring members of CCT's Directory of Performing Artists or Directory of Teaching Artists. Funding is available for up to 50 percent of eligible artist fees. Arts Presentation grants support public performances, concerts, assemblies, demonstrations, 1- to 5-day classroom residencies and workshops. Presenters may apply for more than one artist or performing group for the fiscal year. The maximum grant per year per organization is $3,000. Grants must be matched on a one-to-one cash basis.

The Connecticut Arts Endowment Fund was established by the Legislature to stimulate the development of private sector funding and help stabilize arts institutions. Interest earned on the Fund’s principal is distributed annually to Connecticut non-profit arts organizations which have received a minimum of $25,000 in contributions in each of the last two years from non-governmental sources. Grant awards are calculated based on a formula that rewards those organizations reporting a substantial increase in the amount of private sector contributions received during the prior year. Organizations may use funds for capital projects, operations, programming, or to build their own endowments.

The CCT’s Directory of Performing Artists features over 160 talented artists and ensembles that specialize in public performances, workshops, and short term residencies. Artists listed in the directory represent many cultural traditions and arts disciplines and have been selected by peer panels. The Directory helps bring quality performances and short-term artist residencies to communities throughout the state. Presenting organizations, schools, colleges, community centers, festivals, libraries, entities of local governments (such as parks and recreation departments) that present events featuring Directory artists and groups may apply for funding from the Arts Presentation Grant Program. Performing artists interested in joining the Directory are invited to apply in the fall of even-numbered years.

The CCT’s Directory of Teaching Artists provides a resource of 60+ artists for schools, non-profit institutions, community-based organizations (such as youth-service bureaus), social service agencies, senior centers, and other settings that wish to engage the services of teaching artists. Directory artists represent many disciplines and have been selected by peer panels for their artistic quality and ability to teach. They are required to participate in professional development offered throughout the year. Teaching artist applications are available and posted on our web site in the early fall of even numbered years. In FY 2010 CCT is developing a Teaching Artist Mentorship program in which a cadre of highly accomplished teaching artists will work one-on-one with colleagues to strengthen their skills and abilities. Directory artists are invited to participate in the mentorship program.

This program supports local arts agencies (LAAs) as local/regional allies of the Commission and establishes a network of committed LAAs helping to develop a statewide culture & tourism infrastructure to more effectively serve Connecticut’s citizens. The LAA Cultural Leadership grant program achieves three inter-related goals: Service – provide and/or coordinate services to the state’s arts & cultural institutions, artists, the creative workforce and the public based on identified needs; Network – (a) create and sustain relationships with and among arts & culture constituents as well as with diverse groups across sectors, (b) maintain an alliance with the Commission on Culture & Tourism and, (c) maintain reciprocal relationships with other Connecticut LAAs to advance a state wide culture & tourism infrastructure, and; Capacity– develop leadership capabilities in areas of identified need as well as general organizational & financial soundness. Organizations applying for an LAA Cultural Leadership grant may not apply to the Organizational Support Program (General Operating Support or Project Grants).

The Organizational Support Program (OSP) offers funding designed to strengthen Connecticut’s arts infrastructure and help bring quality arts programming to communities across the state. Grants are available in two categories:

General Operating Support (GOS) is available to Connecticut nonprofit arts organizations to assist with operational expenses and support organizations’ core activities.
Arts Project Support (APS) provides matching grants to registered nonprofit organizations (including colleges and universities) to support an established arts program, such as a music series, exhibition or theatre production.

Organizations must be incorporated in Connecticut for at least two years (three years for GOS) and have a minimum two-year history of public programming to be eligible. Projects eligible for funding must also have a two-year history.

Provisions of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 provide special consideration for historic resources by establishing minimum requirements for physical access to properties listed or eligible for listing on the National Register of Historic Places as well as properties listed on the State Register of Historic Places. The State Historic Preservation Office (SHPO) reviews and provides technical assistance for projects, which seek to use the minimum requirements for historic properties. In cases where application of the minimum standards would threaten or destroy the significance of the resource, State Historic Preservation Office staff provide supporting documentation for that determination and assists in the development of alternative access.

The SHPO is charged with the identification, evaluation, and protection of the state’s archaeological heritage. SHPO staff coordinates with state and federal agencies during project planning to enhance the protection of archaeological resources. It also works in partnership with the Office of the State Archaeologist at the University of Connecticut (Storrs), the state’s Native American community, vocational and professional archaeologists, and concerned citizens to manage Connecticut’s fragile archaeological heritage. Significant archaeological sites are nominated to the National Register of Historic Places. The Commission possesses regulatory authority for all archaeological studies undertaken on state lands or within state-administered waters. With the Office of the State Archaeologist, CCT co-sponsors an annual Archaeology Awareness Month in October to promote education about and preservation of Connecticut’s archaeological resources.

Basic Operational Support Grants are made to enhance and strengthen local historic preservation leadership by providing operating funds to local historic preservation groups. BOS grants allow historic preservation non-profit groups to survey historic resources, provide public education and plan for historic preservation in their communities. The award range is $5,000 to $75,000.

Federally designated Certified Local Governments (CLGs) are eligible to apply for grants on an annual, competitive basis. There are two types of grants to CLGs: Historic Preservation Enhancement Grants that may be used for public education activities and improved historic district commission administration and Supplemental CLG Grants that may be used for a wide range of historic preservation planning projects. Enhancement grants range up to $2,800 and supplemental grants range up to $30,000.

The federally authorized Certified Local Government (CLG) program recognizes local preservation planning expertise and allows communities nationwide to participate more formally in federal and state preservation programs. The CLG program in Connecticut promotes preservation of historic resources by establishing a partnership between local governments and the SHPO. In accordance with federal law, a minimum of 10 percent of Connecticut's annual federal appropriation for historic preservation is earmarked for grants to municipalities under the CLG program. Any general-purpose political subdivision of the state (city, town, municipality, or borough), which meets CLG requirements, is eligible to apply for funds. As of September 2009, forty municipalities had applied for and received CLG status in Connecticut.

The Connecticut Commission on Culture & Tourism, as the State’s Historic Preservation Office (SHPO), is a mandated review agency for state-sponsored undertakings under the authority and regulations of the Connecticut Environmental Policy Act. Section 22a-1a-3 (a) (4) of the implementing regulations specifies that consideration of environmental significance shall include an evaluation concerning the “disruption or alteration” of a historic, architectural, or archaeological resource or its setting. The SHPO staff work with the Connecticut Office of Policy and Management and other state agencies in order to integrate cultural resource consideration as a component of state agency project planning efforts.

Cultural Resource Review under federal law involves providing technical guidance and professional advice on the potential impact of publicly funded, assisted, licensed, or permitted projects on the state's historic, architectural, and archaeological resources. This responsibility of the SHPO is discharged in two steps: (1) identification of significant historic, architectural, and archaeological resources; and (2) advisory assistance to promote compatibility between new development and preservation of the state's cultural heritage. Annually, the SHPO reviews 1200-1500 federal projects, a majority of which are implemented with no impact to cultural resources.

The Historic Preservation Council is established within the Connecticut Commission on Culture & Tourism (CCT) by state law. The Council, which includes 12 citizen-volunteer members appointed by the Governor for a maximum of two four-year terms, advises CCT on 16 critical historic preservation functions. It is also tasked to work directly with the Office of the Attorney General to prevent the “unreasonable destruction” of properties listed on, or under consideration for listing on, the National Register of Historic Places; reviewing and approving requests to perform work on properties on which CCT holds preservation restrictions; providing a model ballot for use by clerks of municipalities considering the establishment of local historic districts; and placing and maintaining suitable marks, memorials or monuments to designate places or sites of historical significance in Connecticut. In performing these functions, the Council relies on staff support from the Historic Preservation and Museum Division of CCT.

Historic preservation planning enables CCT to identify regional and statewide historic preservation issues and constituent needs in order to develop agency goals and objectives in its resource identification, registration, and protection programs. In 2005, CCT published Building Quality Communities, the current comprehensive planning document. The plan allows preservationists and planners to “take stock” of strengths and weaknesses of existing preservation tools and to think imaginatively about means of increasing awareness of and support for heritage resource management. It may be found on CCT’s website at www.cultureandtourism.org.

Pursuant to Connecticut General Statutes, Section 7-147 et seq., towns may establish historic districts and historic properties for which exterior architectural changes are reviewed by local preservation commissions. The SHPO staff meets regularly with local communities, that are considering establishing local historic districts and historic properties. SHPO staff provides information regarding procedures to be followed under the state enabling statutes, responsibilities of the study committee, and preparation of the study report. Since 1959, 122 historic districts including 8,046 buildings and 78 individual historic properties have been designated throughout the state. These designations are found in urban as well as rural areas for a total of 72 towns.

CCT-sponsored studies of minority and women's history produce cultural resource surveys and nominations to the National and State Registers of Historic Places that identify and document historic buildings, sites, and districts important to the heritage of women and minority communities, including African Americans, Hispanic Americans, Asian Pacific Americans, and Pacific Islanders (for Native American heritage, see below). CCT staff:

(a) review suggested survey and nomination study topics received from the public;
(b) recommend new study topics for the Statewide Historic Resource Inventory or the National Register of Historic Places as appropriate;
(c) review final study reports and maintain research files that may be used by the scholars, authors and members of the public;
(d) work with constituent groups to further the preservation and protection of historic sites related to minority and women's history.

The National Park Service conducts National Historic Landmark surveys for the U.S. Secretary of the Interior in order to identify, designate, recognize, and encourage the preservation of buildings, districts, structures, sites, and objects that possess national significance. Potential landmark properties are evaluated by the National Park System’s Advisory Board (a committee of scholars and interested citizens) and recommended by them to the Secretary of the Interior for designation. Connecticut currently has approximately 60 National Historic Landmarks, ranging in period from the Nathan Hale Homestead in Coventry and the Mashantucket Pequot Reservation Archaeological District in Ledyard to Philip Johnson’s Glass House in New Canaan.

Contact: Stacey Vairo, 860-256-2766, stacey.vairo@ct.gov

The National Register of Historic Places is the nation’s official list of buildings, structures, districts, sites, and objects that merit preservation because of their significance in American culture. Since 1968 more than 46,000 properties in Connecticut have been listed on the National Register. Although registration alone does not prevent an owner from altering a property, designation does assist preservation efforts in other ways, such as ensuring assessment of impact from federally sponsored projects and providing eligibility for federal tax credits and, when available, federal grants-in-aid.

The Native American Heritage Advisory Council was established pursuant to Public Act 89-368: “An Act Implementing the Recommendations of the Task Force on Indian Affairs.” The Council consists of representatives from the Schaghticoke, Pawcatuck Eastern Pequot, Mashantucket Pequot, Mohegan, and Golden Hill Paugussett Indian tribes; Connecticut Indian Affairs Council; Connecticut Department of Environmental Protection; the Archaeological Society of Connecticut, and three additional individuals appointed by the General Assembly. The function of the Council is to provide guidance and make recommendations on Native American heritage to both the Office of State Archaeology and the SHPO, with primary focus on Native American burials and sacred sites.

The State Historic Preservation Office (SHPO) annually administers between 60 and 100 preservation restrictions on historic properties, usually as a result of previous rehabilitation/restoration grants provided by the agency to properties owned by municipalities or non-profit organizations. Preservation restrictions require that written approval be obtained from CCT’s Historic Preservation Council prior to performing any work on the property other than routine maintenance.

Supported by the State Historic Preservation Office, the Historic Preservation Council is responsible for the identification, evaluation, and designation of State Archaeological Preserves (Connecticut General Statutes, Section 10-384). SHPO staff and the Historic Preservation Council work in partnership with the Office of State Archaeology at the University of Connecticut (Storrs), Connecticut’s archaeological community, concerned citizens, and property owners to select and assess significant archaeological resources for in situ conservation through designation as State Archaeological Preserves. To qualify, archaeological resources must be listed on either the National or State Register of Historic Places and possess the concurrence of private property owners. State Archaeological Preserves are an important mechanism for protecting Connecticut’s archaeological heritage.

Contact: Daniel Forrest, 860-256-2761, daniel.forrest@ct.gov

The State Building Code recognizes the special nature of historic structures and allows certain alternatives to the life safety code so long as safe design, use, and construction are not affected. The SHPO reviews applications for designation of historic structure status and for preservation and rehabilitation work in compliance with established standards.

The State Historic Preservation Board is established by Section 10-321q of the General Statutes in accordance with the requirements of the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966, as amended and implemented through 36 CFR S. 61.2 (1978). The Board consists of 10 members representing a variety of historic preservation-related professional disciplines each of whose qualifications meet professional standards established pursuant to federal law. Review Board members are appointed on an annual basis by the State Historic Preservation Officer. Their primary function is to review nominations to the National Register of Historic Places to determine whether or not the property meets the National Register criteria for evaluation and to make a recommendation that the State Historic Preservation Officer either nominate or reject the proposed nomination. The State Historic Preservation Board relies on support provided by SHPO staff.

The State Register of Historic Places is the State of Connecticut’s official listing of structures and landmarks important to the historical development of Connecticut. The State Register uses the same criteria for listing as the National Register except that special-case considerations (such as a 50-year age requirement) are not applicable. Properties are listed on the State Register by the CCT’s Historic Preservation Council following review and recommendation by the State Historic Preservation Office (SHPO) staff. Since 1975 over 50,000 properties owned by private citizens, organizations, municipalities, and the State of Connecticut have been listed on the State Register.

The Connecticut Commission on Culture & Tourism maintains a historic resource survey and inventory program that identifies and documents historic, architectural, archaeological, and industrial resources. Collectively, these cultural resource surveys comprise the Statewide Historic Resource Inventory (SHRI), which is a useful tool for municipal officials, local planners, preservationists, property owners, and researchers. The SHRI has generated information, photographs, and maps for approximately 90,000 properties, and new ones are added to the inventory yearly. In addition to surveys organized geographically by individual town boundaries, statewide thematic surveys have been undertaken for bridges, industrial complexes, lighthouses, outdoor sculpture, railroad stations, synagogues, theaters, town greens, state-owned properties/campuses, and state parks. Original reports on paper, with inventory forms and photographs, are available for reference at:

AMERICAN PROGRAM

The Ambassador Program is designed to recruit state residents as advocates of Connecticut’s travel and tourism destinations and industry. The program’s goal is to encourage state enthusiasts to introduce visiting family and friends to Connecticut as the perfect getaway for any age, interest or avocation and to take pride in what we have. Travel research indicates that approximately 40 percent of Connecticut tourists visit the state to connect with relatives and friends making residents extremely influential as promoters of the state as a preferred travel destination. Residents are also most likely to engage in cultural activities instate, an important objective of CCT’s Strategic Marketing Plan. The Ambassador programs’ signature event, the successful Connecticut Open House Day held annually in June, invites residents to connect – or reconnect – with attractions and organizations throughout the state with free or discounted admission and other special incentives.

A primary goal of the Tourism Division is to extend the reach of the State’s strategic marketing effort through integration and cooperative partnerships with the tourism districts and industry. Integration and successful cooperative programs benefit the industry and the State in many ways: affords the industry marketing opportunities otherwise out of budget reach; enhances the perception of Connecticut as a getaway destination; and extends the overall branding of Connecticut as a getaway destination. New cooperative advertising opportunities are available for 2010.

One of the major functions of the Tourism Division is promoting Connecticut to the group tour and travel trade markets domestically and internationally. This is accomplished through membership in organizations such as the American Bus Association, National Tour Association, U.S. Travel Industry Association, The Receptive Service Association (tour operators working with inbound international groups), New England Tourism Center in Canada and Discover New England. Many of these associations sponsor annual trade shows in a marketplace environment. The shows consist of educational seminars; business sessions including prescheduled one-to-one appointment sessions with tour operators, travel agents, and media. Sales leads are available to the Connecticut tourism industry. The Tourism Division maintains a tour operator database cross referenced by state, company name and type of tour program.

Direct sales efforts also include familiarization tours, sales missions, special New England group tour promotions, and outreach to automobile clubs and retail travel agencies.

SCHOLARSHIPS

Three scholarships are available to Connecticut residents pursuing degrees in hospitality, travel or tourism at accredited colleges and universities. The “Connecticut Tourism Industry Scholarship Grants” are administered by CCT, and the “Connecticut Scholarship” is administered by Tourism Cares.

The Connecticut Tourism Industry Scholarship Grants are named for two respected tourism leaders and are funded by the generous contributions of the Connecticut tourism industry. The Richard B. Combs Hospitality Scholarship Grant, a $1,000 grant, and the Walter Schoenknecht Tourism & Travel Scholarship Grant, a $1,000 grant.

Tourism Cares for Tomorrow offers a scholarship resulting from the Connecticut tourism industry's support of the National Tourism Foundation. National Tour Association Convention application is posted in the spring with funds available for the fall semester.

Connecticut’s regional tourism districts are supported with an annual appropriation from the State of Connecticut.

The districts and CCT meet monthly to coordinate marketing and branding efforts and work collaboratively on major cooperative projects identified annually. Each district offers a range of marketing, product development and industry assistance outreach programs. Each serves as the primary source for detailed information about their area and markets.

Past cooperative projects include: consumer advertising; international efforts including training workshops; direct sales consumer travel shows; photo image projects; b-roll filming; and travel trade promotions.

VISION is a shared-cost research resource to help Connecticut arts and tourism marketing professionals develop and steer their marketing strategy. Onsite intercept interviews are conducted to gather information about the profile, motivations, behavior and spending patterns of visitors to participating sites. Results are reported in four seasonal waves and in an annual aggregate report with comparisons to statewide data. Custom reports are also available. The VISION database began in 2001 and now includes the results of 20,000 interviews.

VISION is an innovative study initially commissioned by the Connecticut Tourism Division and its partners. It is now privately published and reports can be purchased by contacting Witan Intelligence Strategies, Inc. 860-675-0231.

As of November 2009, traveler information services are offered at 4 Welcome Centers located at entry points to the state on major interstate highways. The physical facilities are under the authority of the Department of Transportation and traveler information is provided by Tourism Division staff. These centers serve as “point of purchase” facilities, which encourage travelers to stay in the state, extend their visit, choose additional in-state activities or return to Connecticut in a subsequent visit.

Year-round staff are available at the following centers: Darien, North Stonington, Westbrook, and West Willington. In addition, volunteers are recruited, trained and assigned to select centers. The state welcome centers are a great venue to market and promote Connecticut’s cultural and tourism businesses and events. All Connecticut's industry members are encouraged to stop by any welcome center to introduce yourselves, your product, business and services. Brochures are welcome to be displayed with prior approval of agency contact. (Also see Literature Distribution Program and Direct Delivery Program)
